

The fire hit the shield and bounced back onto the dragon. Fern's plan had worked! The dragon had killed itself!

Fern didn't believe what she had done. Then she thought that the king wouldn't believe her so she got some of the dragon's blood in a jar. She travelled back to the town and showed the king what she had done. Fern got to live in the castle and own some land. Let it be known that poor people can become rich quick if they have a clever plan!

By Amy Clasper