

A CHANGE IN TIME

Sam stumbled over something ^{Small} on the ground. It was a small book of some kind. He picked it up and decided to look inside. As he turned the wrinkly cover, Sam found he was in a place he could not recognise. Still with the book in his hands.

Sam looked around. He straight away noticed that humans were not humans they were "CATS" they were drinking from bowls, chasing birds. Sam could smell the chemical de fleaing lotion coming from the little cottages. He saw that cats were humans. Cats were bombing other countries like catmany and kittly. Sam could tell it was a WAR!. After days of fighting catmany, catland, and kittly all signed the peace treaty. After the last signature went on. A tom cat with a long grey beard clicked his fingers and everything went back to normal ever so quickly.

Sam to fit in got down on his hands and knees and began to chase lovely red robins, he didn't catch any. After days of being cat Sam began to forget about his family back in the present day.

On one Monday, when Sam was caught with out a collar and so he got thrown in the pound. The pound smelled like i'm not even going to say what it smelled like. When he got put in his rusty, old cage he spotted his family being adopted, so Sam reached out of