The Hell Demon

Squak! Suddenly, there was a loud noise. Something which sounded like a bird... I carried on running along past the clear white beach which gave off a putrid smell! Squak! It was the same noise again. Where was it coming from?

Anxiously, I scanned the beach and from the corner of my eye I spotted a small battered cage with jagged edges. I sprinted down to the beach and realised there was a tiny maroon coloured Eagle trapped!

Steadily, I pulled open the cage and the beautiful baby bird flew out! "Thankyou ever so much I have been trapped in there for ages!" Said the small ~~too~~ bird. "I would like to give you the power of the Eagle," he Squaked and flew off.

Ten minutes later I decided to go for a swim in the ocean. Confidently, I took one step back and plunged into the warm blue water! Not far out I could see a faint silhouette struggling in some sort of net. Splish, splash, went the water as I swam through it! I realised that the object was a faint silhouette was actually a cute little dolphin. Carefully I unravelled what seemed to be a fishing net so the dolphin could escape. It splashed and waved its fin at me.

After drying myself off I decided to go home by cutting through the forest... Snap! all of a sudden a huge Bengal tiger jumped in front of me. Instantly, it ran behind me as if it was scared. A lot of poachers ran past me and did not see the tiger. "Thankyou, I have heard you saved to of my friends and now you have saved me. To say Thankyou I am going to give you the power of these 3 animals. The tiger, the dolphin and the eagle!" Said the tiger and he ran off.

Once I reached my home the front door was wide open. There were claw marks all over the floor. It was just then when I realised my new puppy was gone.

Immediately, I ran out of my door and turned into an Eagle! Whilst gliding through the air I followed the footprints to a dark spooky cave... Outside I turned into a graceful dolphin and swam down a dark tunnel leading to a secret lair! Once inside I flipped the long bony legged demon in the face. Finally I turned into a Bengal tiger with dark black stripes and bit the jagged haired demon's head off...

Instantly, my small puppy (Ozzy) ran over to me as I changed back into my normal self. Happily I grabbed hold of his leader and stroked him with him by my side!
'I got the power!'
