

The adventures of Princess Tyler

Princess Tyler was a beautiful young girl who liked computers. On the other hand her sister, princess Calum, liked to lie on the sofa munching on the biggest packets of crisps she could possibly find. Princess Tyler was having a blast just sitting on her laptop calling "Teh_chicken_guy09" names. Meanwhile, far, far away, in the deep dark farmhouse, the evil chicken guy sat on his old windows 93 computer, as red-faced as possible. As time ticked by, he began to get more angry and upset. Fortunately for him, he was a master of hacking, so he looked at the msn address- Pr1nc3ss_Tyl3r@live.com, and slowly typed it into his self-made hacking program. It showed him Princess Tyler's home address (12 palace street) and he cackled to himself, MUAHAHAHAHAHAHA, MUAHAHAHAHAHAHA, MUAHAHAHAHAHAHA-OK that's enough..

Far, far away, in 12 Palace Street, Princess Tyler was sitting on her laptop. She had just seen The Evil Chicken Guy sign out, and laughed happily at her work, she was satisfied. However all the while she had been laughing and enjoying herself, the evil chicken guy had been plotting against her. He set out on his terribly long journey (an eighth of a mile) and all the way to 12 Palace Street he plotted some more on how he would torture her. Would he tie her to a wall and decapitate her? Would he peck her toes and fingers right off her bony little hands and feet? Or there was operation Y.U.C.K, which I will not go into detail about... Then there was her laptop... he was sure she was addicted, as she had been in the papers for having the most expensive laptop the world had ever released... yes! That was what he would do! He then looked up and realised that he had walked straight past her palace-oops! Meanwhile, back at the palace, Princess Tyler was giggling and eating cheesy waffles, when she heard something outside... A stomping to be exact. She checked and saw an evil-looking chicken staring up at her. She laughed and checked back to her laptop, however it wasn't there! She looked at the ceiling and wished she hadn't, as there, staring down at her, was the evil chicken guy. She called for princess calum, however, Princess Calum was too busy munching on a bag of Doritos, and watching Scooby doo. Princess Tyler had no chance. She was carried away from her palace, however the Evil chicken guy could hold on to her no longer. Slowly, but surely, she tumbled fatally to the ground. The princess awoke in a Deep Dark Farmhouse, where she was greeted by the Evil Chicken Guy who then gestured towards her state-of-the-art laptop and through gritted teeth slowly said "Smash it." Princess Tyler was about to protest, when suddenly she saw a vegetable aimed at her nose. Her eyes widened with fear, and she slowly, however reluctantly, said "drop the vegetable and I'll do it." The Evil Chicken Guy lowered his carrot-gun and felt a fist slug him in the face. The princess' eyes were now wide with anger, however the chicken had other ideas, and he threw a bag of chicken feed into the poor princess' widened eyes. However news of the princess' kidnapping spread quickly, and at HHQ the heroes were choosing the right men for the job. "Icebreath, chickens aren't afraid of ice..." said fox-girl, "How come chickens aren't allowed out in the ice?" retorted icebreath. In the end the 2 Heroes to go were icebreath and plant boy. They dashed to the deep dark farmhouse, and found the princess in tears, and chicken feed scattered across the floor. The two heroes shrugged their shoulders, then icebreath smeared the evil chicken guy with his cold breath, and the chicken did not stand a chance. He fell to the ground, frozen. Plant boy then used his super-long tongue to stick onto the piece of ice which had once been a super-evil chicken, and threw it far, far away (one eighth of a mile). The Princess super-thanked the super heroes, as they slowly walked off. Meanwhile, back at the castle, Princess Calum groaned. Scooby Doo was finished. He lay back down and then looked up, realising that something blue was falling from the sky, towards the window. Princess calum let out a final scream, as she was pummelled to the ground by a gigantic piece of ice. So they all (well, most of them) lived happily ever after. Except the princess needed somebody else to cyber bully..

FIND OUT WHO IN PART TWO!