

close enough he thought himself as a cheetah and pounced upon the sly cunning witch and nibbled her to bits. He took the key from her snake skin belt and opened the big, wooden doors leading into the witches' home better known as the castle of doom. He took all of the stolen things back to their owners including the princess the king named Thor as a hero the king also ordered Thor and Fiona to get married and as for the witch she was never to be seen again! They all lived happily ever after!
